NOTICE.

Our patrons will please bear in mind that no one has the authority to collect or receive any money due this office except the manager.

Clarence B. Douglass is out in a communication in the Dallas News booming Ardmore.

Secretary Grisham is out in a letter to President Cleveland asking to recrown Lilioukalani of Hawaii.

In the third revision talk now raging Culberson and Bland want the matter caucused. A strong Democratic element is opposed to any considerable extension of the free list or great reductions.

CRANKS with dynamite are on the increase in the east. They are generally after rich men or officials. Prompt justice should be meted out to them in such a severe form as to stop the fashion in its incipency.

OUR SUNDAY SERMON.

Christ was right. He spoke for the poor, worked for the poor and died for the poor. He went to the bottom of the questions of land, money and labor; was a lover of equality and fraternity; believed that no one man was better than his brother or sister man and woman. He combated evils as He found them. His efforts were directed against the money changers, or bankers of his day against the crafty few who stole the land from the many. Christ scourged the money changer, because He saw that the practices of that character were calculated to enslave the poor and gather the wealth in the hands of a few. He denounces the grabbing of land because He saw in that practice, next to the currency question, the most important question of the day. He inaugurated a crusade against the twin robbers of land and finance, and so aroused the people that the overthrow of these usurpers was threatened. They united, and, though they did not have the aid of a servile monopoly enslaving press at that time they had succeeded in making many of those whom he had labored to serve, believe that he was a monster, and, they did the dirty work of the monopolists and society leaders, as usual, by crucifying their best friend. Rich leaders in both church and state seek persistently and exclusively that class of society who have already attained unto their standpoint in wealth and culture. Every individual sustains two relationships toward his country and creator. One is where God has honored him with the power or superiority, the other is where the Deity, in his living forces, is the equal or superior in the premises. To bow down and worship God in his works and living forces where he is the equal or superior and at the same time refuse to associate with or assist him in the relationship where he has honored, either the individual or nation with the superiority, is to write yourself down a hypocrite. The Spirit of the Lord is now like Noah's dove. It can find no resting place. It is driven forth by the rich society clubs, called churches. Their fat, slick priests and preachers, on salaries of from one thousand to fifty thousand dollars per year, tell their congregation, while "doctering the word to suit the itching ear," that God meant a needle like an eye in an ancient wall, when He spoke of the rich, etc. Why did all his disciples in surprise, ask "who then can be saved?" So far as the teachings of Jesus Christ are concerned any theologian will admit that they are more in harmony with the People's party than any other party either in America or over the seas. If Jesus was to visit this earth this glorious Sunday morning and enter any of the fashionable churches he would be given a seat up in the gallery or in the rear end of the church. He would hear his own ministers preach exactly the reverse of what he taught them on earth. He would leave the church to denounce it and its teaching, to denounce the systems upheld by that church and its minister. He would attack our political system because of its rottenness, our railway system because of its meanness to the liberties of the poor, our system of finance as the most adroit swindle of the centuries, our land system as being just as bad as when he died, and he would be crucified in the public press, that moulder of public opinion, with more diabolical hate and fury than when nailed to the cross. He would find the tribe of Judas among the editors and preachers strong and numerous, the descendants of those who raised the cross and nailed Him to it. He would find them in charge of the political machinery of the day, and those who inspired the crucifixion 1900 years ago would be recognized in their offspring. His teachings are right. They live on and will never die. They inspire the lowly strengthen the weak and shine out in blazing truth among men. Many of those who sit in the editorial chair and stand in the pulpit do not know him and do not believe in him. They regard his advice as Utopian, but for fear of having to go to work at something else, play the hypocrite and continue to call themselves Christians though they seldom practice Christianity. If you are a Christian cut this sermon out and take care of it, for it will not be republished like one of the hypocrites, Talmage and others. There is not a preacher who will dare to stand up in a pulpit and demand of his wealthy hearers to "go and sell what thou hast and give to the poor," few of them have the courage to even hint that "the laborer is worthy of his hire," and none of them will say that "the land shall not be sold forever." It should be the aim of the People's Party to remedy all these evils which at present disgrace the very name of civilization. We must not forget that if earthly love by the vulgar rich is degraded into mere selfishness and passion, it still remains in its purer sense the highest mystery of our existence, the most perfect blessing and delight on earth, and at the same time the truest pledge of our more than human nature. To be able to feel the same unselfish devotion for the Deity which the human heart is capable of, if filled with love for another human soul, is something that may well be called the best religion. It is the helpless, homeless and friendless poor man or woman's only possession. It is after all the Christian command "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul and with all thy mind." Our next Sunday sermon will be predicated upon the immortality of the soul.

TEHAS! TEHAS! TEHAS!

Turn back I say, to days of yore—
Turn back for ages with me,
For I have a story to tell to-day,
A story for me and thee.
'Twas many long ages ago, my dear,
Columbus had not sailed o'er the sea;
The Indians to and fro, no fear,
Roamed American forests free.
Prehistoric races dwelt in forest,
cave, and dell,
They wooed the dusky maidens, their love stories oft did tell,
Or around their camp fire's glow at night,
Their heroes in full details,
Stretched in their glorious savage
plight,
Would tell their dismal tales.

A race of giants did live and thrive,
On Arizona's scorched plains,
No race could meet this tribe alive,
Or chant their war refrains.

But there came a time, when sore oppressed,
No rain for many a day,
Their spirits were for water pressed,
No brave could find a way.

The women and children cried:
"Bring water or bring death,"
The drifting sands,
Of desert lands, replied,
With burning breath.

Then rose the nation up so grand,
Like Israel of old,
And led forth by a valiant man,
They sought for new homes bold.

Away across the plains they run,
Their anguish to escape,
They travel toward the rising sun,
Oh! what will be their fate?

Down, down they fall, they groan,
they die,
A thousand in a day,
Water, water, is the cry,
Great Spirit hear them pray!

At last they all give up the strife,
And lay them down to die,
But the mothers of the suffering band,
Like Hagar heard the cry
Of children on a desert land,
And sought again for life.

They left, the starving, dying band,
Toward the rising sun did start,
They returned not with an empty
hand,

But with a glad and happy heart.
Tehas! Tehas! was their cry,
Up sprang the suffering band,
That sound brought to their ear advice,

In their language did descry,
That they had found the promised land,
And discovered Paradise.

On they rush upon the shore,
Of the river Colorado,
And man first views the landscape o'er
Of Texas—Eldorado.

Birds paused in their graceful flight,
On wings upon the air,
Animals did not take affright,
But were feeding peaceful there.

Tehas! Tehas! was the shout
That shivered then the land,
Into the crystal waters scout,
The scorched and thirsty band.

Thus Texas, queen of states, you see,
Derived her glorious name,
A Paradise for you and me,
Where dwells love's sacred flame.

And generations have come and gone
Like waves upon the sea,
But each new race has sang the song,
I am singing now to thee.

Ardmore, I. T., Nov. 12, 1893.

THE celebrated murder trial of I. G. Randle charged with the killing of Ed S. Randall in last January is going on in the Dallas district court. This case has attracted much attention owing to the prominence and wealth of the accused. He has in his defense the ablest array of legal talent in the state.

O. S. Bally can be found at Hall & Ryan's drug store. South Main street. Mr. Bally is city sanitarian. It may prove cheaper to employ Mr. Bally than a doctor.

When attending court go to the Cottage Home Hotel for a square meal.

THE CITY.

Setson hats at Russells. If Oh, dear, where can Felindy be? Rev. Vincent, of Holder, was in the city yesterday.

Rev. A. S. Cooke of Leon, is in the city. Mr. F. X. Hughes, of Dallas is registered at the Central.

Mrs. Dr. High went to Berwyn yesterday to visit her husband.

Ladies you should visit the Racket Store if you want a fine hat in the latest style. 1wk

Have you seen Russell's line of overcoats they are daisies and very cheap. 1wk

Alva Ford and Miss Nannie Holder two leading society people of Holder, will be married today.

Harshaw sets the best table for the least money of any man in town. 1wk

Yesterday was a lively day with the business men. Cotton receipts were not unusually heavy but trade was good.

Hon. Solomon E. Jackson, left yesterday for Guthrie, O. T. on important legal business. He will return Monday morning.

Geo. W. Thrasher is in Paul's Valley today. Something more than financial obligations was presumably the cause, in other words it is said there is a young lady in the case.

Ed Nelson a prominent business man of Davis was in the city yesterday. He displayed his progressiveness by subscribing for the Ardmoreite.

A cry of "let them fight, part them etc." caused a rush to the corner of Main and Caddo streets Friday night. When the crowd arrived it found it was only a scheme to gain an assembly.

Our poet is not like Oscar Wilde. He discards the long hair but takes on ebony whiskers. He is not dangerously mad, but on the contrary he is perfectly harmless. Read his poem on Texas published in this issue.

HOTEL FOR RENT.

The Cottage Home Hotel, opposite court house, 15 rooms well furnished with beds, etc. Call on or address R. H. Glenn, Ardmore, I. T.

Preaching at the Christian church, Lordsday, Nov. 12, 1893, at 11 a. m. and 7:15 p. m. Morning subject, conscience and christianity. Evening subject, change of heart. Lordsday school at 10 a. m. come and worship with us.

John M. Claypool,
Pastor.

A bet of a $35 suit of clothes was made yesterday by two gentlemen well posted on cotton receipts for the season in Ardmore. Twenty three thousand bales is the maximum upon which the wager is based. The other party concedes twenty two thousand showing that both have made careful estimates.

CHANGE OF LOCATION.

J. N. Worthy has removed his extensive stock of family and fancy groceries from his old stand corner Main and Mill streets, to the brick building formerly occupied by C. McCoy next door above the central hotel. Here he will be better prepared to accommodate his old customers and to offer inducements for new ones. Mr. Worthy has not been in Ardmore as long as the oldest inhabitant, but he has built up a trade, second to none in the city. The Ardmoreite trusts he will flourish like a green bay tree in his new and commodious quarters.

A. Morse, headquarters for cheap groceries.

Attend church today.
Mrs. S. A. Kendig left last night for Chickasaw. She returns tomorrow.

Sunday school as the usual hours and places today.

This is Lord's day. Remember to keep it holy by attending divine services at some of the various temples of worship.

Judge Hardy is slowly improving.

Look out for some important business announcements this week.

The city drug store has put up an elegant new sign.

Miss Minnie Holder, of Holder, was visiting in Ardmore yesterday.

Mrs. D. J. Kendall, son and family returned from Gainesville yesterday.

Eat your dinner at the Central hotel today. Especial arrangements will be made for you there.

The doctors complain of a dearth of practice which of course means a lack of sickness.

C. P. Bruce returned to South McAlistar this morning on the 4:45 train.

Wanted—Partner to engage in mercantile business with some capital address X, this office.

Have some money to invest in business. What have you to offer? Address X, this office.

We regret the removal of the Diamond Mattress company as their workmanship is endorsed by our best citizens.

Prof. J. W. Mahan proprietor of Mahan's Business college, Sherman Texas, was in the city yesterday in the interest of his school.

If you want good dried peaches, go to A. Morse, east of railroad track. He sells them four pounds for 25 cents.

Trimnings worth from 25 cents to 10¢ will be given with every dress from 25 cents per yard upward. Munzeshimer & Daube. 1wk.

Persons desiring copies of the daily ARDMOREITE can obtain same by calling at London & Moore's book store.

The Racket Store duplicates all the cut throat prices on staple goods and sells you the balance of your bill for less money than the dodger men. 1wk.

It is understood from good authority that two deputy marshals for the Ardmore court are in a fair way of losing their commissions for conduct unbecoming peace officers.

ATTENTION LADIES.

We are showing a line of Fancy Indian Work Baskets which surpass anything ever seen in Ardmore. London & Moore's Book Store.

The Diamond Mattress company, upholsters and mattress manufacturers will leave here for Oklahoma city or Guthrie, November 25 to December 1st. Parties wanting special work in our line or owing an account will please call at once. J. M. MCCURDY, Manager.

GIVEN AWAY.

FROM OVER THE WORLD

A General Summary of News Condensed and Clipped From Our Daily Exchanges:

cotton advances 18 points. Bonds stronger, firm, and silver quiet.

The Democratic members of the ways and means committee are working diligently on the tariff bill but they have not yet formulated their bill; the idea of putting a tax on native wines has been practically determined and that there shall be no tax on crude tobacco.

Private Secretary Thurber says that the president will not consider any new appointments until after the meeting of congress.

The war department has received no word of any trouble among the Navajos as intimated in the Associated Press dispatch from Durango. Col.; this is taken to mean that the trouble is not serious.

Attention is called to the professional card of Dr. I. W. Folsom. He stands eminently high in his profession. Having graduated from the Cumberland University Lebanon Tenn., and the famous Washington University of Baltimore. During the last six months stay in that city he was the hospital prescription druggist and in that capacity acquired much valuable information that has been of great benefit to him in his subsequent practice.

The City Boarding House under the able management of Mrs. Mac Caperton is one of the best conducted and most popular resorts in the city. As a hostess Mrs. Mac has few equals and no superiors. As is testified by her appearance and the genial disposition of contentment for the par excellence of their bill of fare. A special Sunday dinner will be served to day.

Deputy marshal Lindsay yesterday arrested John Watson charged with being accessory to the murder of the butcher Adler about a year since at the slaughter pens near this city. It will be remembered that Sam Smith and a man named Lebo were held as the murderers. It appears that Smith has now turned states evidence and caused the arrest of Watson. The out come will be watched with interest. At the time of the murder it was surrounded by many mysterious circumstances which have not yet been satisfactorily dispelled. This new turn may serve the purpose. Watson says he will have no trouble in establishing his innocence.

Mr. Watson was seen by the reporter and asked for a statement. He says there is nothing in it only the outcome of spite work engendered by his refusal to go on Smith's bond and furnish money with which to conduct his defense. He anticipates no trouble in establishing his innocence. The assistant prosecuting attorney at Paris has been wired and will be here Monday to represent the government in the preliminary trial before U. S. Commissioner that day.
